

Hal Leonard to sell Allegro interactive piano software

The Business Journal of Milwaukee

Friday, October 3, 2008

Hal Leonard Corp. of Milwaukee will distribute interactive piano tutorial software and products from Allegro Multimedia Inc. under an exclusive agreement announced Friday.

Boulder, Colo.-based Allegro Multimedia provides music gaming software and educational tools designed to teach people how to play the piano and read music quickly.

Under the new agreement, Hal Leonard, the world's largest music print publisher, will distribute Allegro's Piano Wizard Premier, a video game that integrates computer-based piano tutorial software with an interactive gaming environment. The offerings will include options to buy a 37-note keyboard separately or in combination with the software.

Hal Leonard Corp.'s products include songbooks, sheet music, educational publications, reference books, DVDs, CD-ROMs and magazines.